

Happy Hour

fridays at 5 pm
in the first floor common room (FC 24)

Beer of the day:

Appearance:

dark reddish amber in colour, very clear, coming with no beer head, which is slightly disappointing for a handpump-dispensed beer.

Smell:

intriguing nose--a stinky edge of old honey comes hand in hand with a hay-ish wild aroma, reminiscent of a barn; touches of caramely malts stay in the background, with quite restrained hints of hops.

Taste:

a sour-sweet, raw-chestnut like malty flavour is ensued closely by a caramel's bitter hints and mildly spicy aftertaste of chewy hops. subtly bitter finish, laced with more bitter hoppyness lingering at the back.

As usual there will also be a selection of bottled beer, wine, chilled fruit juice and soft drinks as well as crisps.

Qui bene bibit, bene dormit.
Qui dormit, non peccat.
Qui non peccat, salvatur.
Ergo bibamus!
