1995 Paper 13 Question 4

Graphics

In ray tracing a large computational cost is associated with determining ray–object intersections. Explain how the use of bounding volumes and space subdivision methods may reduce this cost. [20 marks]